Yesterday's vote does not neces-sarily mean that the majority of Parliament approves the budget in its entirety. The government was wise, after some hesitation and confusion, to drop altogether its plan of taxing the sale of Canadian corporate stocks to foreigners. The objective of this specific plan-to discourage the alienation of Canadian resources -can scarcely be questioned by anyone. But, as Mr. Gordon has admitted, the proposed method of stopping that alienation was impractical and could not be enforced. Other ways, including changes in the withholding tax on foreigners' investments, remain and their effect

In attempting to do too much too fast, Mr. Gordon has committed mistakes, though his honor has not been questioned. The lesson of those mistakes is clear and should be a guide to the future, both in finan-cial and other policies: The government must sacrifice some speed to give important issues due delibera tion before action is attempted. It must, moreover, extend that deliberation to all members of the cabinet so that ministers can be thoroughly informed and make their contributions to the discussion of important measures.

It should be remembered that the budget now before Parliament is not the full definitive statement of government policy. It contains some permanent measures which, on the whole, are sound and constructive. but it reflects only a preliminary look at the massive problems inherited from the previous government. By the end of the year it will have a better chance to fill out its program for Canada's development and by yesterday's vote it has apparently won that margin of time.

Mr. Gordon's defence of his procedural mistakes yesterday was candid and manly. He admitted the serious errors caused by his inex-perience and offered an honorable apology to Parliament. As to his position in the government, however, the opinions already expressed in these columns cannot be altered by what he said.

The tragedy however does not close with one wrecked career or the garish vulgarities of Christine Keeler. Causes and personalities that should remain untouched by all this sordidness have been cruelly drawn into the spreading mess.

Even Prime Minister Macmillan, who erves a better fate, has been bantered by destiny and has emerged from the curnt test as a diminished and vulnerable figure. OTTAWA-For more than a week now the opposition parties in the Commons have concentrated the greater part of their efforts on one objective: forcing the resignation of Finance Minister Gordon.

So far the opposition has not proven any betrayal of trust, leak of budget secrets or other malfeasance on Mr. Gordon's part that would warrant his dismissal. What it has proven is that Mr. Gordon is politically naive and inept, fumble-fingered, lacks good judgment, and does not show much sensitivity for the peculiarities of the parliamentary in-

These faults may be attributed to his lack of experience in party politics, in Parliament and in government, and to his lifelong training and experience that led him to take a "businessman's approach" to a job of enormous complexity that cannot be executed according to the confining rules of good business administration.

If government were business he likely would be fired. But precisely because government is not business, and because it is politics, Prime Minister Pearson cannot af-

The charges against Mr. Gordon are three:

1. That he hired "outside" experts from private investment firms as consultants in the preparation of the budget, but permitted companies to continue paying salaries while they were privy to budget

His judgment, and his political sensitivity, were seriously at fault in permitting them to retain their salary connection with their

2. That he announced withdrawal of the "takeover" tax before the stock exchanges had closed for the day, thereby precipitating wild gyrations in the market.

This is a mistake that can only be attributed to ignorance or carelessness.

3. That he was less than frank with the House when he was questioned about his outside help on June 14, and that he misled the House June 19 when he said he had not advised "anybody . . . other than the prime minister and certain members of the cabinet" that he intended to withdraw the takeover tax. On June 21 he finally admitted under questioning, he had also told five offi-cials of his department, including his three onomic braintrusters.

An experienced minister, a man who had rough-and-tumbled his way up the parliamen-tary ladder, gaining experience and wisdom with every tumble, would not have made these mistakes.

Another Myth Shot

We had here recently a coincidence of ents that my friend Diamond John," last the big freeloaders, described as a twinight doubledecker.

In the late afternoon the French National Association of Cognac Producers gave a brandy-tasting reception, and in the early evening the California congressional delegation gave a wine tasting reception.

Needless to say, French brandy was served at one and California wine at the "Diamond John" was beside himself

"This is what has been missing in my life," he chortled. "Dramatic conflict. The importers and the domestics pitted against each other in a battle of the freeloads.

At the brandy freeload, the host was I. M. (Tex) Bomba, a New York importer, who was pointed out to me as an authority on American drinking habits.

Bomba is an expert on the subject of getting bombed," my tipster reported.

I approached the elixir oracle and requested that he elucidate. He responded with a stimulating and enlightening commentary

'The trend nowadays is toward lightness," Bomba said. "A lot of people are buying brands that are advertised as 'light' without even knowing what the term means.

"There is a widespread impression that liquors are 'light' if they are pale in color.

That is not necessarily true. Good cognac, for instance, is light but has a dark color.

"It also is widely believed that light liquors are less intoxicating. That is nonsense. The percentage of alcohol is the same whether they are light or heavy."

I thanked Bomba for the information and I pass it along on the chance that it might keep some misguided tippler from going out-like a light.

clare his position on every vote. Speaker Alan Macnaughton Monday night ruled that, on the basis of a 1945 precedent in the Commons, he did not have authority to force the 13 members of the New Democratic Party who abstained from voting on a non-confidence motion to declare a stand for or against the motion.

Mr. Macnaughton said in the Commons he does not feel he should be called on to challenge members who decline to vote. But authorities said such an action might be undertaken by the House itself by writing a new "standing order"—one of the rules of Parliament which is enacted by the members with

It had been a traditional rule of Parliament, cited by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, that members sant to Parliament. members sent to Parliament have a duty to their constituents o declare whether they are for or against every motion put to

This tradition was embodied in a treatise on parliamentary practice by Sir John J. Bourinot, a turn-of-the-century clerk of the Canadian Commons. It is also to be found in ancient rule books not in the current rules adopted by the Commons at their last revision in 1962.

Mr. Macnaughton, required to give a ruling on Mr. Diefen-baker's point on the spur of the noment, cited a 1906 rule of the British Parliament and a 1945 decision by the late James A. Glenn as Speaker of the Canadian Commons.

There have been incidents owever, since 1945 which eemed to support the older in-erpretation that a member who s in the Commons when a vote s called must either leave the chamber to abstain, or declare his position when the yeas and nays are called.

NOT CHALLENGED

Occasionally, members re-frain from voting and are not challenged. This happened in February when the Diefenbaker By JACK BEASTALL government was defeated on a non-confidence motion and Edmond Morris, then Conservative Watering in the Rain-Why Not? MP for Halifax, did not vote. Nobody called on him to declare his position. Mr. Diefenbaker said Monday There are madness. At least, it is my folks, even belief.

Rambier wins 1963 "Car of the Year Award"

How did we get to be best? By working at it for years. We didn't win the 1963 Motor Trend magazine "Car of the Year" award over-night. Years ago we decided on a policy of providing "maximum usefulness to the user." And we've stayed with it.

That policy has pioneered dozens of major improvements in the automotive industry. That's why the industry's most coveted "Carofthe Year" awardwas given this year to the entire line of Rambler cars, "for outstanding design achievement and engineering leadership."

Uniside construction gives greater strength—Better door fit

If you're buying a car this spring and have some other car in mind, you simply can't afford to overlook Rambler. It will just take you a few minutes to call on a Rambler dealer and get the facts.

For example, how is the car you are presently considering built? By the old bolted body and frame method or single unit construction with the body and frame welded into one solid piece? If it is single unit, you have made a choice in the right direction. But, did you realize that Rambler pioneered this single unit method of construction 23 years ago? Since then, the industry has taken up the idea and is using it in one form or another—and for a very good reason, it produces a stronger longer-wearing body.

But now with exclusive Uniside construction, Rambler again goes one better.
The entire sides of the Classic Six and Ambassador V8 are stamped out of one single sheet of steel. This method gives a better door fit, better body support and better weather sealing.

Deep-dip process is the world's most complete rustproofing

When you talked to other dealers did you inquire about rustproofing? Did anyone claim that their car had the best rustproofing in the world? No? Well, we do. It's called Deep-Dip.

Developed right here in Canada specifically for Canadian conditions, Deep-Dip is an exclusive Rambler process. The entire car body is submerged into six huge tanks one after the other. Each of these tanks contain thousands of gallons of cleansing and scouring solutions that thoroughly prepare the surface of the steel. Then the car is dipped right up to the roof in a tank of primer paint. Sounds better than the usual spray job? You're darn right it is. As a matter of fact, in the process we spill more than the others use! The Rambler body also contains 75% more rust resisting galvanized steel than before.

Ceramic-armoured muttler is guaranteed for as long as you own the car

Did you look into service-free features? Are you getting a muffler that's guaranteed for as long as you own the car? You do on a Rambler. It's Ceramic-Armoured and fights off rust and corrosion. Remember that name: Ceramic-Armoured, only Rambler has it.

Battery and coolant are guaranteed for 2 years or 24,000 miles

About your battery and coolant: anybody mention them? Why not? They cost you money to maintain. That's why Rambler gives you a battery that's unconditionally guaranteed for two full years or 24,000 miles. If it fails anytime before the guarantee period you get a brand new battery at absolutely no cost to you. The coolant is an all-season radiator fill. You never need to add water or antifreeze. And it prevents rust and corrosion in your cooling system. It's got a two-year 24,000 mile guarantee, too.

What about warrantees? What story did you get there? Well, we want to be blunt. In no case is any other automotive warrantee better than Rambler's in the area of items that could be costly to you.

Comfortable reclining seats highlight Rambler interiors

How about comfort and safety? Are you getting reclining seats and head-rests? You do on a Rambler. They're chair-height and adjustable. Rambler's interiors have head-room, leg-room and hip-room measurements to equal or better any other car in their class.

Double-safety brakes give added protection

Are you getting Double-Safety Brakes? They're the ones with the two separate hydraulic lines. One to the front wheels, one to the rear. If one set of brakes fail, the other continues to operate. Rambler's

Are you getting an alternator? It's a standard feature on every Rambler. It keeps your battery charging even when the engine is idling. Your electrical system can never drain your battery dead.

X-Ray booklets separate fact from fiction

We've compared engineering so now we're on to styling. This is something you'll have to see for yourself. But we'd like to quote what Motor Trend said: "Lean, clean lines that are apparent from almost any angle."

What we have told you so far is only the basis for a comparison. For more detailed information on all makes and models go to your Rambler dealer and get your free copies of his exclusive X-Ray booklets. One of them compares the Rambler American, the lowest priced Canadian-built car, with all other compacts. The other booklet compares the Classic and the Ambassador with all the cars in their class.

Illustrations compare the features of competitive cars

These booklets will help you to compare all the cars you may be considering. With them you'll be able to separate fact from fiction as you shop around. In them you'll find charts and comparison tables presented in a simple and easy to-read form. The information you get covers exterior dimensions, interior comfort and convience features, engine sizes and specifications and every other detail you'll want to know.

Charts give full details of specifications

At the end of each booklet there's a list of prices for all competitive makes and models. These are the manufacturers recommended list prices. Now you can see exactly what you get for the price you pay. And remember, these valuable booklets are free from your Rambler

By the way, while you're at your dealer's take a test drive in a Rambler. That's the best comparison and the one that only you can make to prove to yourself that Rambler is your best Automotive buy.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

Roger Mercier is the last person you would ex-pect to find at a track meet. He is tall and spare and handicapped. His left foot is two inches shorter than the right and the second toe is missing. His left leg is wan and skimpy, like a well-used chicken bone.

The handicap is not an after-effect of polio or any other debilitating illness. Roger Mercier was born that way.

"I didn't play many games when I was young," said this youngster of 19. "I felt out of place. But a few years ago I began to fool around at the jumping pits. In the be-ginning I favored the broad jump. Lately I've come along faster in the high jump. I guess it's my best

It was his best Saturday the Vancouver Island track and field champion ships at Victoria High School.

He matched jumps with half a dozen others early. Then it was only Mercier and Sarjin Singh Grewel, staring at the bar six feet two fnches above the sand Freshly arrived in Victoria from India, Grewel is a magnificently constructed specimen. Broad shoulders, tapered hips, greyhound legs. He jumped for India in the British Empire Games. On form alone he looked as if he could "eat" Mercier. But there are times when the bar even at six-two looks like Mount Waddington and for Grewel this was one He couldn't scale the peak on two tries and

At Six-Six a Tail Rocket Helps

Polite applause greeted Mercier's mastery of the bar at six-four. Hands beat harder when he sailed over at six-five and a half, snapping the meet and B.C. records.

When the pegs were fixed at six-six, a stillness came over the crowd

Nobody in Canada has exceeded 72 inches of space flight without a rocket on his tail. Mercier missed the first time, loosened up by jumping around like a springy kangaroo and settled into a crouching position for a second shot.

His start was excellent. He slammed his right foot down at a predetermined spot, shot skyward, rolled and landed in the pit. Turning sideways he saw the bar was still up though wobbling. The crowd roared. Too soon. The bar wavered . . . and skidded off the pegs.

On his third try he took it off cleanly.

He wore defeat lightly. "When I started jumping seriously," he said, "I could only do five nine. Then six-one, six-four and tonight six-five. A few inches more every year.

Stomach Knots Show on Watches

It was mentioned that the bar and the pegs were neither new nor official. He didn't bite at the bait. "I've seen bettair and worse," Mercier shrugged. "I just—what you say?—tightened up."

In this business of running and jumping in snort pants, they all "tighten up" at one time or another. It's not a question of "choking up"; it's a case of trying too hard, of the stomach knotting when the body should be relaxed.

Bob McLaren, the Oak Bay schoolboy wonder, won the 100 Saturday in 9.9. A month ago, in the inter-high meet, his flashing spikes had dug in at 9.8. Why would be be alower against better competition?

Archie McKinnon, the freeman-coaching emeritus, reached into his memory for an explanation. Twenty years ago I saw three top runners each win their heat in the 100 in 10 flat. They were coasting, actu-ally slowing down at the finish. Boy, I thought . . . When they get in the final they'll come down in 9.4. Maybe 9.3. They ran like three tigers. Faces taut, arms flailing, giving it everything. The time was 10 flat. "Unconsciously they had tightened up. I think Mo-Laren did the same thing.

The Slow Starter Who Was Pinked McLaren contended that he ran his usual race but didn't

"as good a start as I would have liked."
"A psychological thing," said McKinnon. 'Sprinters tend to anticipate the (starter's) gun, rather than respond to it.'

McKinnon recalled a sprinter who anticipated so m he often disqualified himself by making false starts. "I worked on him," McKinnon said. "I told him, 'Concentrate, don't anticipate.' "One day I happened to be the starter in a race in which this boy was running. There were a couple of false starts but he stayed in the blocks. Good, I thought.

"When I finally pulled the trigger my boy stayed in the blocks like he was glued. I was so darn mad I pointed the gun a few inches behind his rear and fired again. What happened?

"My aim was terrible," McKinnon said. "I nicked him.
That was the last time I ever tried that trick to get a boy

Virus Hits 'Peg Horses

WINNIPEG (CP) — A cough-producing virus making the rounds of North American tracks has hit a third of the horses stabled

But Dr. E. N. Anderson, veterinarian at the flat racing track, said in an interview the epidemic is on the wane and should end in a week or two.

About 200 of the 600 horses at the track contracted the virus which hit about a month ago. About 100 still have it.

It takes a horse about 10 to 12 days to shake the non-fatal ailment which produces symptoms of the common cold, including coughing.

Dr. Anderson said the virus, about which little is known, apparently worked its way into Florida from South America. From Florida, carried by horses, it slowly worked north to tracks in New York and Chicago and earlier this year struck Toronto and Montreal.

Dr. Anderson said it takes about six

Dr. Anderson said it takes about six weeks for the virus to disappear once it has hit a track, and on this basis Assimbola Downs should be clear shortly.

A. G. (Scotty) Kennedy, track manager, said fields in the eight-race cards have been "reduced very little" by the epidemic and it "should all be cleaned up by the end of the week."

The Cedar Hill squad needs to claim only three of the possible nine points to clinch first place.

Regardless of the outcome of Thursday's matches, Cedar Hill's membership plans to pay tribute to the junior swingers. They'll do that by paying each of the six team members his entry fee into the Canadian junior championship at Colwood in August.

The Cedar Hill team is composed of Fred Worthington, Greg Barnes, Wayne Speidel, Roy Clemens, Alan Glover and Stan Kenward.

Sign Industry Seeks Relief From Bylaw

Representatives of the sign industry Monday night asked Saanich council to modify its "restrictive" three-year-old sign bylaw.

Wilfred Fraser of Vancou

So far an incompleted survey of signs reveals that only 31 per cent comply with bylaw AS HARITIIA regulations.
The industry's main request was that building signs be regulated on a fatio of two square feet per foot of property frontage as in the city. At present the municipality holds to a ratio of two square

But municipal planner Tony Parr said there are many small buildings on large propsmall buildings on large properties such as service stations. A property frontage ratio would result in a "drastic" change in the size of signs,

"In some cases they would be 10 times the size now permitted."

The sign industry's brief also proposed projecting signs be allowed to extend within three feet of traffic in ap-proved areas.

"Facia signs are all right in the city where traffic is slow moving," Mr. Fraser said, "but where traffic moves quickly it is the merchant's life blood to be able to stop it."

However, councillors gener-ally opposed any extension of signs over public property.

Mr. Parr said for safety reasons "I would strongly recommend we don't let signs start to creep out over the road allowance," where traffic signs were situated.

Coun. Leslie Passmore, chairman of the committee, said councillors would examine the proposals and recall representatives of the industry before making any decisions.

Wilfred Fraser of Vancouver, a representative of Neon Products of Canada Ltd., told councillors the bylaw is "so restrictive that it is working against the best interests of the merchants in he municipality."

A meeting of the sign bylaw committee was held at the request of the industry because the three years of grace allowed non-conforming signs runs out this September.

while ago in the supermarket where our family contribution to the retail grocery business makes us buy our supplies, I was struck by the marvel of food in fantastic variety and quantity to be had for the reaching of a hand.

Naturally, the hand must produce money at the end of the aisle-by-aisle tour. But that's beside the point, since most of us these days draw more for a short work week than our fathers could earn in three long ones.

What dazzled me was that without straying 30 feet from the spot where Win had parked me with her cart, I could garner a frozen Chinese dinner, skinless Portuguese sar-dines, and a jar of Mexican pickles hotter than anything this side of Hades.

Win still tracking down an advertised bargain in fruit juice, I watched a housewife debate whether to buy a big steak or two little ones. She settled for the smaller cuts; an error, since the big steak was plainly a better buy.

I added it to the sardines. chicken chow mein and pickles, reflecting that in our bountiful country, most of us iply don't get hungry any

Not truly hungry, I mean. Not hungry the way a couple of us were on a go-light trip when we lived on stick-soup, macaroni and rice till that ran out, then scrabbled along on nuts which had got wet and collar—beside the steak.

The night we headed out of the hills, we dired on two candies shaken from an otherwise empty grub sack. We breakfasted on glacier water, and set off, with stomachs pressing our backbones, for the Coast.

The jaunt should have taken us two days. But looking ahead to just such a hungry return, we'd left a tree cache down there; and in it was a family-size can of oven baked scope the two marches into

Remembering, I left Win's cart and stepped around into the next aisle, where I hunted out the biggest bean cans in the market. The one in our cache had been even larger, so I took two.

Well there was the tree, and there the shreds of a tar-paulin, and dangling above our heads, a broken length of seine cord. Our bacon was gone, our pancake flour smeared the underbrush, and we never did locate our tea. We found the beans, though.

The can, smashed flat, lay among stones by the river. A paw armed with white meat-hooks had battered and punctured it.

We stumbled away from there, cursing the grizzly with the reach longer than any bear should possess, for loot-ing our cache. Sodden and miserable, we plodded the last mile to tidewater. The boat that was to pick us up had arrived a day early. It took-us_off, and I went to sleep with a half-eaten hunk of bread in my fist.

It occurred to me that we might need a loaf or two of French bread. Back at the cart, Win had stowed her bargain fruit juice, and unloaded most of my plunder.

But she agreed with me about the steak, and I man-

Is It Pickings Or the Pickers?

Are working conditions really poor in the strawberry patches or has the labor orce "gone soft"?
As the luscious red fruit ripened on the vines in the Saanich Peninsula the cry went out, "more pickers needed." Then as the appeal was answered the pickers started their cry, "low wages —poor working conditions." Working conditions and

wage rates were established

Take Home Pay Was Too Small

Complaints from the pickers ranged from poor working conditions to poor berry patches. But the chief complaint was that the takehome pay was too small for the number of hours spent doubled up in the patches. Mrs. V. C. Lerick, 747

Greenlea Drive, reports that her two children and four others in their early teens came home after their first day of picking complaining of the poor facilities and the poor patch they had been assigned to pick. They had each earned about one dollar for earned about one dollar for the day's labor. Skeptical of the children's story, Mrs. Lerick joined the young pickers last Saturday.

This time they were assigned to a different grower.

Most 'Peter Out' By Mid-Morning

Mr. Young, who has been in the berry business for many years, has observed that most of the new pickers are eager to start but most of them "peter out" by about 10 a.m.

"If I want 50 pickers then I usually hire 100 because I know half of them will be

SHOPPING GUIDE

A Pastel Wool Knit Suit Suitable for Summer Wear By PENNY SAVER

Penny seems to have done a lot of talking recently about wool garments, which is slightly odd considering the time of year. But here I go again!

This time the item is a pure wool knit suit that is so light it is just right for our cool summer days (the kind the weatherman terms "cloudy with sunny periods").

Suit is two piece, with jacket in sweater style, button front, but a stylish no-collar, band-edged neckline. Skirt has elasticized waistband. It comes in pastel pink or blue and black.

Sizes are easy to fit, small, medium or large. Price is easy

Gift idea for the woman who prefers to buy her own perfume, is a hand-cut crystal perfume bottle to put it in. Store where Penny saw these bottles has all different sizes and shapes in Italian and German makes. No need to have a colored one either, as clear prismatic shapes pick up all the colors of the rainbow anyway. Prices start at $5.

One fabulous colored set (a delicate pinkish shade) includes three pieces, two bottles and an atomizer, for $36. But your favorite lady is sure to be pleased with any of them.

On the gift list for the man in the family, put an after shave lotion and cologne, that come in novelty holders. For the man who bowls, there is after shave lotion for $3 or cologne for $4.25 in black bottles shaped like bowling pins and containing four

If he likes a game of skill or chance, same amount of lotion cologne is available at same prices in dice-shaped jars, black

Miss I. M., Scranton, Pa.

A. I suspect your cat is still on the youngish side, and this jumping at you very likely is nothing more than a desire to play. However, jumping at your face must not be tolerated, no matter how triendly the act is, because of the possible injury to you. Do this. Next time your pet jumps at you, reprimand him in a stern volce then put him down in the cellar for awhile. Repeat this every time he jumps at you. He'll quickly get the idea that jumping is taboo.

BRIDGE LESSON - By OSWALD JACOBY

The experts complicate Blackwood by employing another convention known as Gerber along with it. Blackwood-Gerber players use four clubs as Gerber they want to use four no-trump as a strong bid in no-trump. Thus after any open ing no-trump bid the immediate raise to four no-trump is just a raise. The immediate bid of four clubs asks for aces. Gerber after a no-

EAST

when it is apparent that trump opening has another advantage over Blackwood. Sometimes you will want to sign off at game if your partner doesn't show enough aces for a slam, After North opens with one no trump South wants to be in a small slam if North holds three aces and a grand slam if North holds all four of them and he has a perfect hand to ask for aces by Gerber. It is not a perfect hand for Blackwood because it is possible although very improbable that North will only hold one ace in which case there will be no play for five odd. This happens to be the case. North has a full 17 points for his opening no-trump, but he holds only one ace. He shows this by his four heart bid. He is a trifle surprised when he finds himself playing that contract, but everything is fine when he sees dummy. For 64 pages of easy-to-understand bridge tips

Frankly, there were many Sunday evenings dur-ing the past decade of watching when we turned our TV dial to Maverick, The Steve Allen Show, The Comedy Hour and, more recently, to The Sunday Night Movies just to get away from Ed. They all competed for the ratings against the big variety program. But, while they all (except for the movies) failed, Sullivan keeps marching on. The one scary part of the whole business is that we'll probably still be watching anniversaries in the future and realizing that what we're really doing is aging ourselves. story simply but effectively told late Sunday was Old Hawk and Young Hawk. The production dealt with the isolated life of an old falconer in rural Japan. The tale was graphically woven through ex-cellent photography carried out under harsh snow conditions. This was a Made in Japan product of excellent quality.

Once again the morbid have been satisfied with another TV special on the life of the late Marilyn Monroe. ABC, with Mike Wallace narrating, spent a half-hour following her career through film clips and still photos. It was only a half-hour long, but any-thing more would have been too much to take. Can't we just remember her as she was without constant commercial reminders?

A while ago in the supermarket where our family contribution to the retail grocery business makes us buy our supplies, I was struck by the marvel of food in fantastic variety and quantity to be had for the reaching of a hand.

Naturally, the hand must produce money at the end of the aisle-by-aisle tour. But that's beside the point, since most of us these days draw more for a short work week than our fathers could earn in three long ones.

What dazzled me was that without straying 30 feet from the spot where Win had parked me with her cart, I could garner a frozen Chinese din-ner, skinless Portuguese sardines, and a jar of Mexican pickles hotter than anything this side of Hades.

Win still tracking down an advertised bargain in fruit juice, I watched a housewife debate whether to buy a big steak or two little ones. settled for the smaller cuts; an error, since the big steak was plainly a better buy.

I added it to the sardines, chicken chow mein and pickles, reflecting that in our bountiful country, most of us simply don't get hungry any

+ + + Not truly hungry, I mean. Not hungry the way a couple of us were on a go-light trip when we lived on stick-soup maccaroni and rice till that ran out, then scrabbled along which had got wet and sprouted.

Reliving that starvation trek, absently nestled an interesting smoked sausage-golden brown and shaped like a horse collar—beside the steak.

The night we headed out of candies shaken from an otherwise empty grub sack. We breakfasted on glacier water, and set off, with stomachs pressing our backbones, for the Coast

The jaunt should have taken us two days. But looking ahead to just such a hungry return, we'd left a tree cache down there; and in it was a family-size can of oven baked scope the two marches into

As we progressed, the thought of those beans goaded us till we were galloping through that terrible country faster, I'll bet, than anyone travelled it before since. In the rain-swept dusk we humped our packs along a last river bar, bucked a final spruce hell, and arrived at our

Remembering, I left Win's cart and stepped around into the next aisle, where I hunted out the biggest bean cans in the market. The one in our eache had been even larger;

Well, there was the tree, and there the shreds of a tar-paulin, and dangling above our heads, a broken length of seine cord. Our bacon was gone our pancake flour smeared the underbrush, and we never did locate our tea. We found the beans, though,

The can, smashed flat, lay among stones by the river. A paw armed with white meat-hooks had battered and punctured it.

We stumbled away fro there, cursing the grizzly with the reach longer than any bear should possess, for loot-ing our cache. Sodden and miserable, we plodded the last mile to tidewater. The boat that was to pick us up had arrived a day early. It took us off, and I went to sleep with a half-eaten hunk of bread in my fist.

It occurred to me that we might need a loaf or two of French bread. Back at the cart, Win had stowed her bargain fruit juice, and un-loaded most of my plunder. But she agreed with me

Bird Just Loves Margo—Especially at Mealtime

Photographer Sid Pott, 5990 Old West Road, became bird portrait specialist last week when his daugnter Margo, 14, brought home baby sparrow she found in the middle of Shakespeare Street. Tiny bird took to Margo enthusiastically; likes to ride around on her shoulder, as at left, or shoe (centre). But best time of all for little bird is mealtime. At first Margo had to use tweezers to insert

As the luscious red fruit ripened on the vines in the Saanich Peninsula the cry went out, "more pickers went out, "more pickers needed." Then as the appeal was answered the pickers started their cry, "low wages —poor working conditions." Working conditions and

wage rates were established

Complaints from the pickers ranged from poor working conditions to poor berry patches. But the chief complaint was that the takehome pay was too small for the number of hours spent doubled up in the patches.

Mrs. V. C. Lerick, 747 Greenlea Drive, reports that her two children and four others in their early teens

Mrs. Lerick, who says she is an experienced picker, picked for six hours and earned a total of $2. The children earned about half what she did. She asked the grower if there were better patches and he informed her that there were and that he had pickers in them.

ROYAL IN-LAWS BUY ISLE CLOSE TO CAMPBELL RIVER

Queen Elizabeth's sister-in-law is holidaying on an island hideaway she bought near Campbell River.

Princess Theodora, a sister of Prince Philip, and her family have been at Twin Islands for almost a month.

Her husband is Prince Berthold Frederick, Margrave of Baden in Germany.

They bought the island (the name applies to one island) from Max Bell of Calgary, president of FP Publications, and some associates, last year.

MAN DROWNS ON WAY Pay Boost TO LONG-SOUGHT JOB

CAMPBELL RIVER—A 41-year-old Vancouver man going to his lirst job in three years was drowned in Bute Inlet near Homathko River Sunday when a small boat overturned.

George Lewis was on his way to Eva Creek Logging Co. at the head of Bute Inlet to start work as a cook.

He and three others had boarded a small outboard boat after disembarking from a plane.

The engine broke down near the mouth of Homathko River and the current swept the small craft into a log boom. Two of the men held on to logs and two were swept under, one of them Lewis.

The other man was able to scramble from under the logs, but Lewis was never seen again.

RCMP said the body has not been recovered.

116 Die In Korea Slides

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — separate from basic teacher Landsildes have taken at salary negotiations usually least 116 lives in the south-

Ninety-four Koreans were reported killed today by a silde on the island city of Changungpo on Koje Island. Many of them were high school students who lived on a hillside which collapsed after three days of rain.

Another 22 died in three smaller slides Monday night in Pusan and nearby Kimhai County, police said.

The requested allowances range from 17 per cent of an elementary principal's salary, to 52 per cent in senior high schools which have 56 or more teachers.

The GVTA request was submitted to the school board. David Logan, board finance chairman, said it is "by far the most reasonable teacher request I have ever heard."

A total of 51 inches of rain fell on Koje Island, off the south coast, during the storms and Monday night police evacuated all the inhabitants from a hilitop area where many students had their lodgings.

This morning the rain stopped and the evacuees had just returned home to cook breakfast when the hillside collapsed, burying about 100 persons.
